No

None

There should be extra counselling sessions where professors should guide the students in accordance to the student's high points and the type of career they should or can choose. This will help in building a good students and professors relationship, and will boost the placement cell in future.

No. Not at all

Excursion, smart class, audiolingualism

More field work tasks

I can't think any innovative way. The ways that are used are enough for a more effective evaluation of the learning process.

The poor response of the University officials/malfunctioning of university website

We need a proper signboard for the department

Should improve in the sector of placements.

It's quite simple in study factor, should start the practical practice of the course

The department I'm into caters to most of our needs. The faculty members are very coordinating and there is a sense of belongingness in our dept.

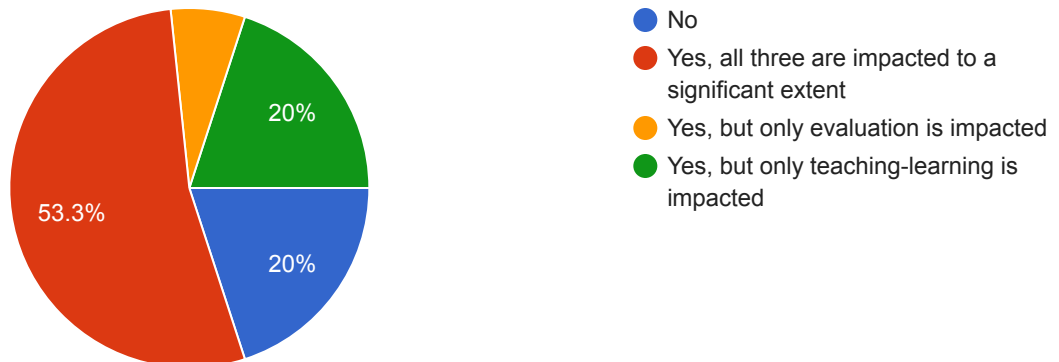

I am fine with our department.

If career counseling on the fields we have chosen is delivered to us, it would be even better. So as we can know our options in the chosen field.

I am satisfied with all the activities of our department.

29) Do you think that the teaching, learning, and evaluation process has been impacted by the pandemic?
